Hauser Junior-Senior High School
Hope, Indiana

It Was the Best and

LARRY FINKE

Saturday night, January 30, proved to test the minds and hearts of the entire student body at Hauser. Junior Reserve basketball player Larry Finke was involved in a fatal car accident on the way home from the Jac-Cen-Del ball game. The entire school and community of Hope mourned his death. This year Larry served in FFA, and as physical education helper along with his participation in basketball, baseball, and cross country.

Over the seventeen years of his life, Larry seemed to favor the sport baseball. Mr. Robert Miller, baseball coach and reserve basketball coach, described Larry in this way, "Larry knew what he wanted to do and that was just to be Larry. Larry didn't want to follow the crowd just to follow them—he just wanted to be Larry. He was good playing shortstop on the baseball team, but he thought he would be of more use to the team in the outfield, so I put him in the outfield. Positions like pitcher would be considered to have more glory than outfield but Larry didn't care about that. He just wanted to play where he would do the most good, glory or no glory." Although Larry left a blank space in Hauser High School, he also left part of his character in the hearts of all who were privileged to know him.

PUTTING HIS WHOLE heart into the swing is Larry Finke, striving to help his teammates win the baseball conference.

Worst of Times for Us

"It was the best of times, it was the worst of times, it was the age of wisdom, it was the age of foolishness" . . . It was A TIME FOR US. With the ever-increasing need for well-educated people in the world today, students faced a challenge to develop and broaden their minds. The addition of a few new teachers helped to change the atmosphere. The second semester of school brought a few student teachers looking for willing students.

A variety of extra-curricular activities served as outlets for students such as class parties, basketball games, and dances. To balance the schedule, there was an opportunity to study college preparation or vocational courses. This year has been a year of learning and enthusiasm.

Fads Provide Outlet

Eenie . . . Meenie . . . Mini . . . Moe seemed to describe the wide variety of skirt lengths worn by girls at Hauser. Some stayed with the traditional mini lengths while others ventured from the right-above-knee length to the midi all the way to the maxi. Boots became the rage as the cold winter months struck, with several days of near zero weather. Boys favored colorful blue jeans, some paint-spotted and others flared from the knee to toes. Fringe and more fringe described the trend in both boys and girl's clothing as vests, moccasins, purses, and hats turned to leather and fringe.

Hair enabled students to express themselves as a span of styles emerged. Boys stuck with the traditional medium-long hair as set by the school dress code, but girls ventured to new and different ideas. Wigs were the rage and several took the look of chin-length hair in front and layered shorter hair in back. Hair decorations were leather barrettes with short wood sticks that ran through them, and chignons, which were knit hair coverings worn by several girls. Freedom to wear fads of all types helped make 1971 A TIME FOR US.

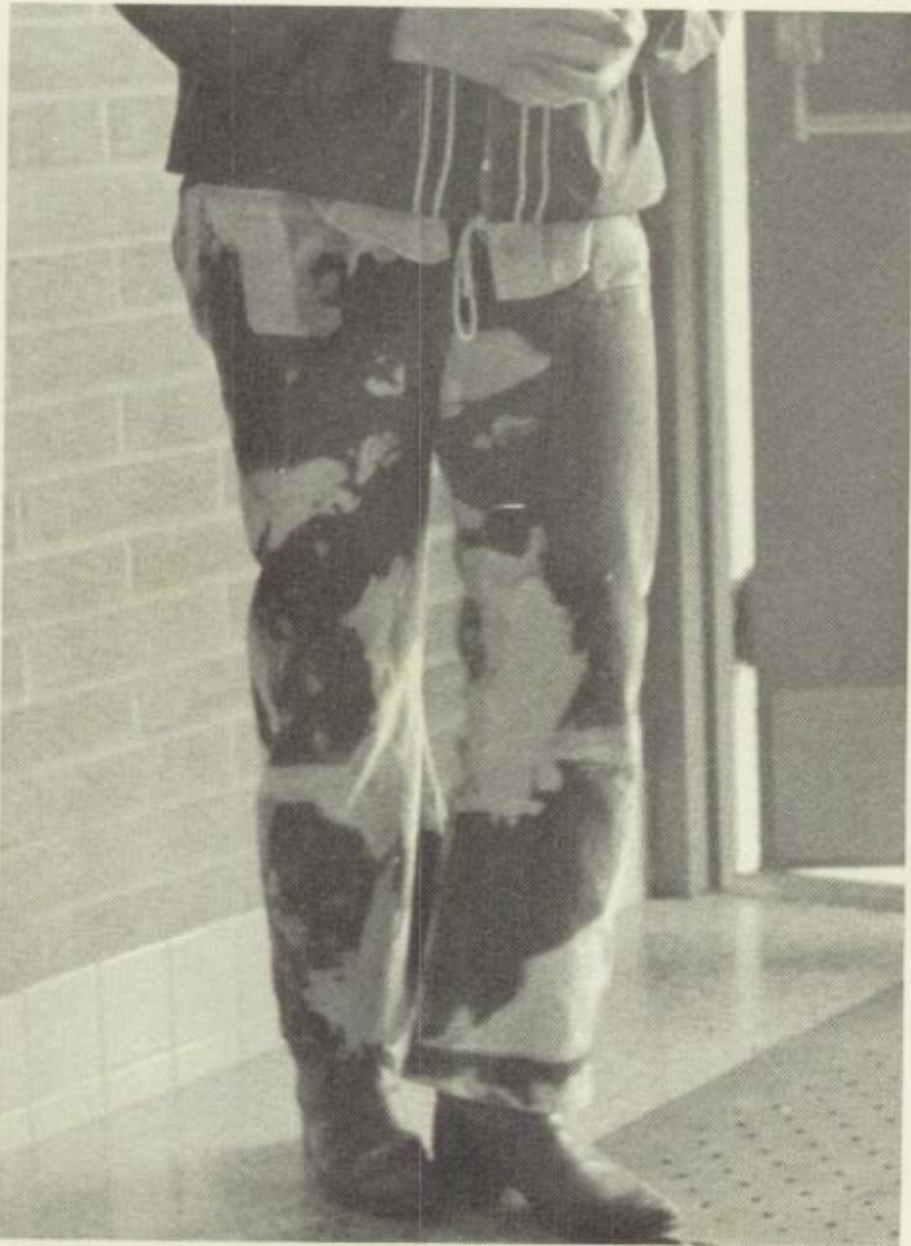

MAXIS ARE IN for Janice Finke as she models her new maxi coat in front of a mod background.

BUCKLES AND BOOTS swept Hauser's fashion scene around Christmas time, as cold weather arrived.

BLUE JEAN MONOTONY is not the case anymore for this boy, as he wears the paint-spotted style.

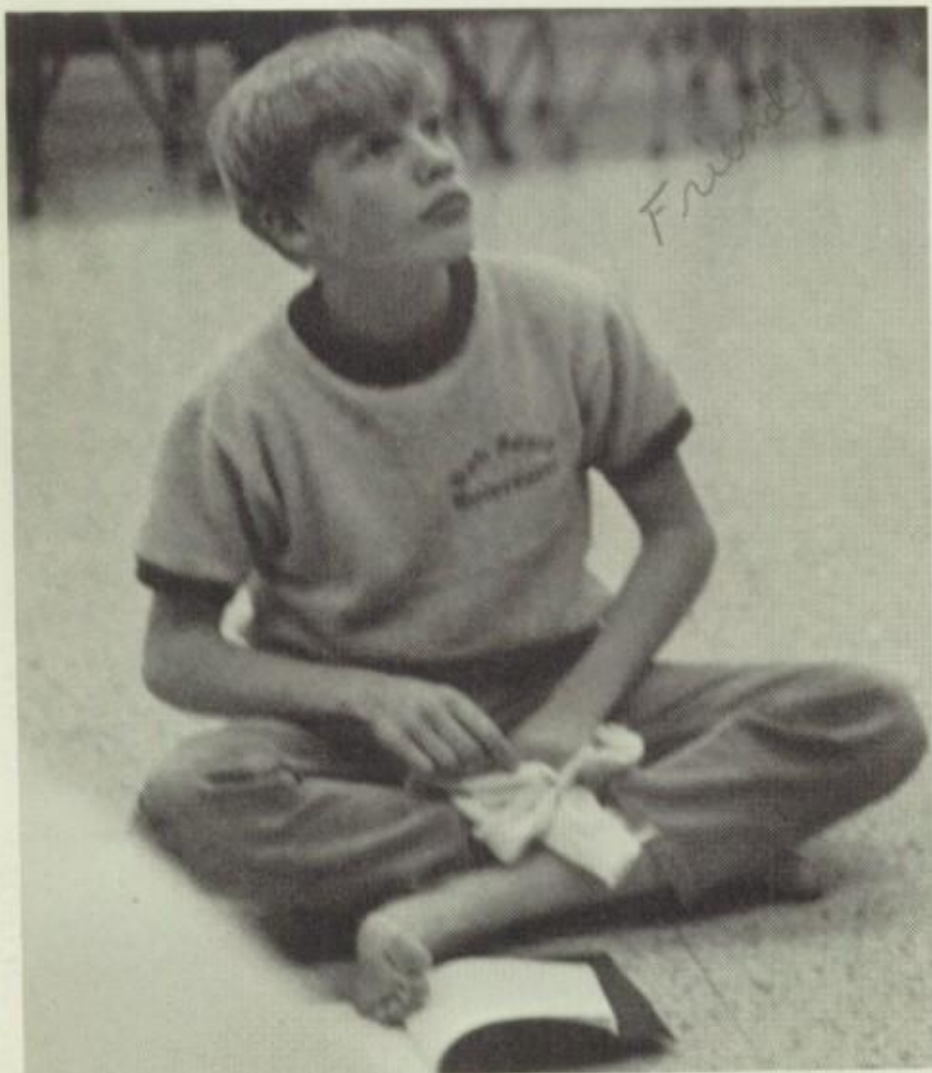

KNITTED CHIGNONS on this unidentified girl give bothersome long hair a place to go.

DECORATED LOCKERS are common sights in the school halls and provide fun while "doing your own thing."

OODLES OF FRINGE and leather make their debut and are worn by many teens, including senior Roger Rob-inette.

"ISN'T A BEAK WHAT A BIRD'S GOT?" questions Benny Flora, as Oliver, while speaking to Dodger on a London street.

"GRAB THAT HAT," cries Lois Taylor as she transfers a hat to Doug Allen in a half time show featuring the Dixie-land Band.

"Oliver" and Half Time

WORKING UP A ROUTINE for their last performance of Hauserettes is Debbie Smith, Melissa Baker, and Connie Epperson.

DROPPING THAT CHIN is Bill Kuhfahl and Adrian Hayes while practicing a song for the musical "Oliver".

Shows Add Zip to Music

November 20 marked the first half time band and Hauserette show which was a salute to the Marine Corps. In attendance was Congressman Lee Hamilton who was responsible for obtaining a color guard from the USMC training center which performed during the show. The second show was entitled "Take The Railroad" and featured "I've Been Working On The Railroad". "Dixieland On Parade" entitled the third show during which the Dixieland band performed along with the band. The fourth show was called "Happy Anniversary" and featured "You Gotta Have Heart" and "Raindrops".

The musical "Oliver!" was presented during the spring by the Hauser Music Department. It was the third musical to be presented and ran through March 18, 19, and 20. A wide variety of people assisted in the production including mainly Mr. Biggs as director, Mrs. Walker as choral director, and Mr. Wickard as costume advisor. The art department assisted with scenery while other students played in the orchestra, helped on the stage crew, and assisted with lights. "Oliver!" was also featured along with the Dixieland Band on April 27 at Stouffer's Inn at Indianapolis.

GIVING THE YOUNG PICKPOCKETERS a tip is Skip Robertson as Fagin, while Nancy, played by Lee Ann Ziegler, observes.

"SWEET GEORGIA BROWN" thinks Susan Boyle as she interprets the tune giving the ball players rhythm for the warm-up.

1970 Prom Salutes

Many activities are liked and enjoyed by students at Hauser. Prom and Homecoming seem to have special meaning for every student. In reference to "A Time For Us" this tells what it is all about.

The moon was in the seventh house and the "Age of Aquarius" reigned as the Prom of 1970 commenced. The class of '71 presented it on May 16, 1970 from 8:00 to 12:00 P.M. The Larry Webber Quintet provided music for the evening. A banquet dinner was served followed by the King and Queen coronation. Colin Scheidt and Susan Rominger were chosen as 1970 Prom Royalty. Later that evening the 1970 Jetstream was distributed.

From 1:00 to 5:00 A.M. a parent-sponsored After Prom was held in the school cafetorium and gym. Theme "The Circus" provided hours of entertainment for students and their guests. Many prizes were awarded to students who participated in games and activities. Gifts were donated by various enterprizes in the area.

On November 21, 1970 Debbie Smith was crowned as Hauser's Homecoming Queen of 1971. First runner-up was Joan Mobley and second runner-up was Cindy Hull. A "Coronation Hop" was held in honor of the new queen and the "Closed Road" provided the entertainment.

SMILES OF HAPPINESS come from Debbie Smith after being crowned Miss Homecoming Queen of 1971.

THE CHILDREN WERE NESTLED all snug in their beds. Seniors Karen Dodd, Joanna Larrison, and Sonia Berrios

pretend to be sleeping children in the Christmas skit, "Twas the Night Before Christmas."

A PARTRIDGE IN A PEAR TREE—Senior Randy Teltoe begins his performance of "The Twelve Days of Christmas."

"WHAT'S NEXT?" asks Randy as he seems to be getting his signs a bit confused.

TWO TURTLE DOVES—Jeanette Vass aids our hero as he hurries to grab the next sign.

FIVE GOLDEN RINGS—Randy looks winded but Brenda Miller seems happy as "Twelve Days" draws to a close.

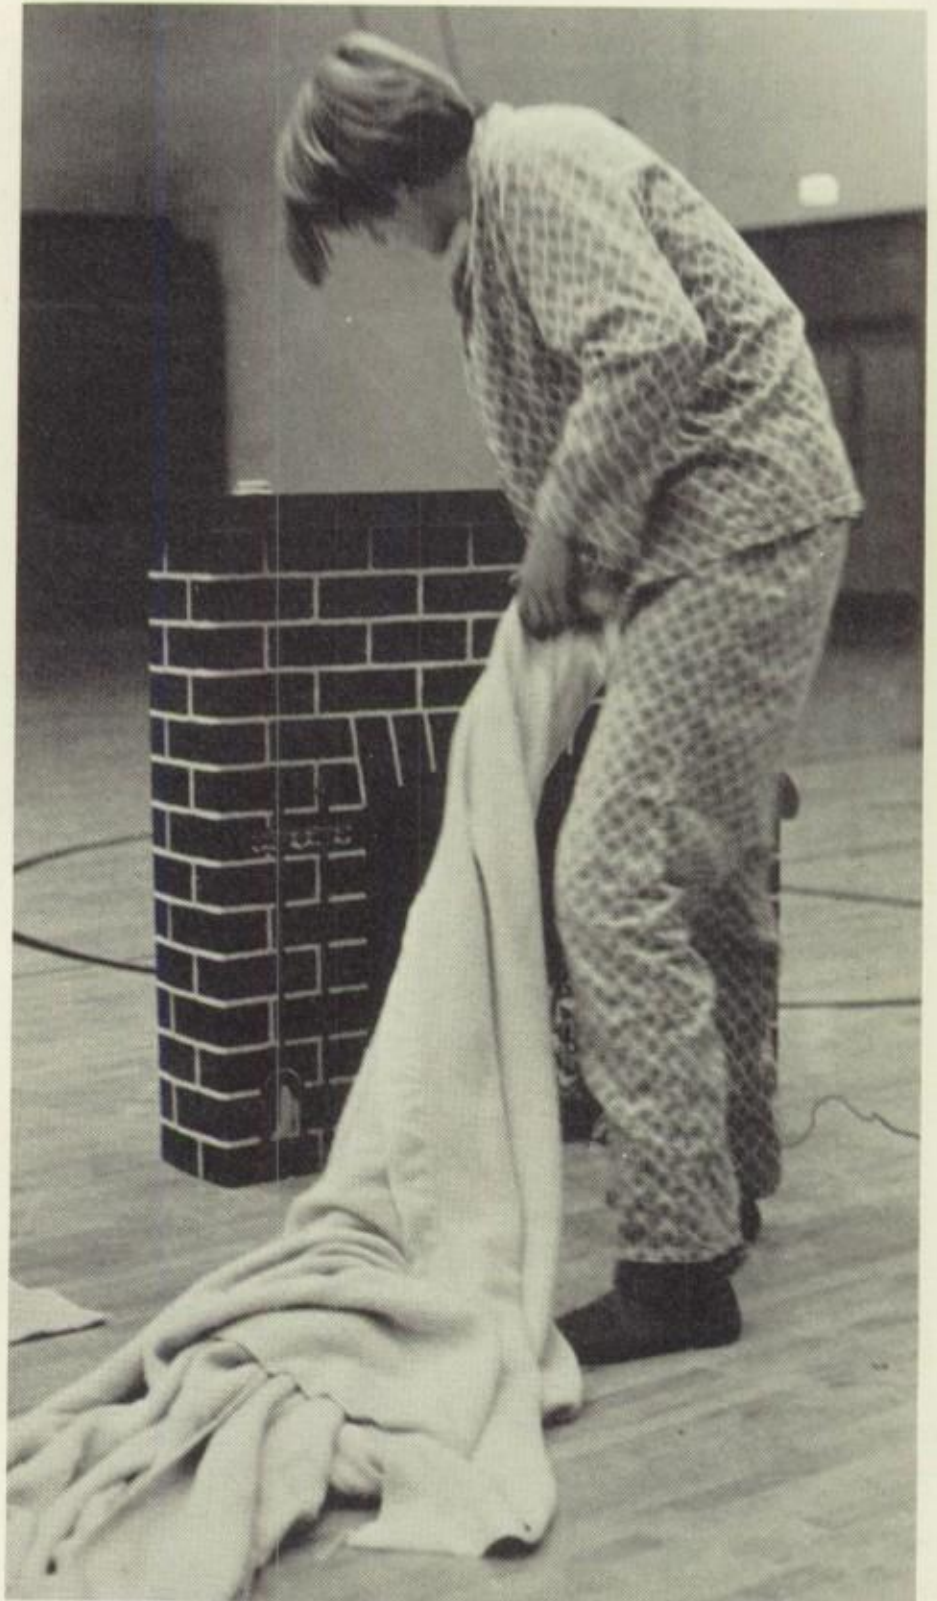

By Jordan Art Players

During a rather unusual Christmas convocation, Mr. Gerald Jordan's third period senior English class presented "Twas the Night Before Christmas" and also "The Twelve Days of Christmas." In "Twas the Night Before Christmas," seniors took various parts such as Mama, Papa, Children, Reindeer, Santa, and Sugar Plum Fairies. The senior high band accompanied as Mr. Keller narrated the story. The reindeer borrowed track sweats from the athletic department and the sugar plum fairies borrowed Majorette skirts in order to fit the parts.

Senior hustler Randy Teltoe starred in the Jordan Art Player's production of "The Twelve Days of Christmas." The comedy was accompanied by Mr. Biggs on piano and Karen McQueen on the vocal cords. Each senior took two or three parts such as geese-a-laying, maids-a-milking, or golden rings.

Hauser's first assembly on September 30, 1970 featured Mr. Alfred Rage who sang various styles of songs such as Calypso, Afro-Latin, Folk and West African Folk songs. Another school assembly was presented by Kathleen Sheehan on October 28, 1970. Voice prints and examples of a recording session were presented in her performance entitled "The Wonderful World of Sound." December 3, 1970, brought Vic Hyde to entertain students with his wide variety of musical instruments. Other assemblies included Ed Schetter on March 10, 1971 and Clifford Guest on April 21, 1971.

CHECKING OVER the stocking situation is senior Doug Phares, attempting the role of a child in the Christmas Convo.

"YOU'RE UGLY," cries Greg Vetter as he cooperates with Alfred Rage during an Afro-Latin song.

A Time for Sports

A time for sports was found the year round at Hauser. Jet fans faithfully supported their favorite team in basketball, as well as track, cross country, and baseball. Adults joined students in playing an active role in school life and its benefits through sports. Hauser people will remember the exciting sports action.

Team members found that responsibility, character, and teamwork were not just three more words. These promoted the Hauser winnings in competition, as well as building a better person of the players. Athletes gained recognition through their abilities, attitudes, and sportsmanship.

TAKING CLOSE AIM for two points against rival, North Decatur, is Tim Scheidt.

Games with Arch Rivals

With the thought of a possible near-perfect season in mind, the Hauser varsity went into the season for 1970-1971 with much determination. The Jets started off the season with four straight wins but then went into a slump. After placing third in the Holiday Tourney, Hauser could not get back into full swing.

The Jets had a season full of close games and a total of seven games were lost by six points or less. During no one game was Hauser out of reach of a victory. The Jets made great comebacks in nearly all of the games and usually during the fourth quarter. The game with Milan resulted in an overtime while the bout with South Decatur resulted in a double overtime.

The Columbus sectional proved to be no better for Hauser. The Jets fell behind through the first three quarters in their game with Greensburg. As usual, team spirit caused a comeback during the fourth quarter. However, the comeback fell short as Hauser lost by a score of 68-58. Lee Shirley was high point man for the Jets with 16 while Tim Scheidt and Randy Teltoe followed close behind with a total of 14 each. Tim Scheidt was the only Hauser man to rate on the Sectional team.

Reserve Ball Boys Strive to Improve Record

Team members with lack of experience played a major role in the reserve's losing season this year. The team was composed of four juniors and nine sophomores. Getting off to a slow start, the reserves made a great charge at the end of the season to compile a several game winning streak. Several close games prevented the team from having a near 10-game streak of wins.

Mr. Robert Miller, the reserve coach, although not having as much talent on the team this year, fought hard at first to keep their heads above the water. As the team's percentages in field goal shooting as well as free throws improved, the team shot ahead to defeat many of their tough opponents in the games.

The reserves placed third in the reserve tourney held at Hauser. Losing to Southwestern in the tourney championship, they came on hard later in the season to beat their rival, the Spartans. The boys on the team were backed by reserve cheerleaders, Nancy Nussmeier, Stephanie Phares, Teresa White, and Patricia McQueen.

UP FOR A JUMP SHOT is sophomore David Stowell as both precision and arch makes for two points.

Team Status and Spirit

The freshman team learned many new techniques while mastering the fundamentals of the sport. These new techniques proved very helpful to their team in winning their tourney at Edinburg on January 16.

Hauser's first game in the tourney proved to just be a practice for the freshmen as they walked over Waldron with a score of 51 to 22. The championship game proved to be much closer, but the Jets still came up on top with a score of 39 to 37.

Although a losing season is nothing to be proud of, Mr. Jordan can brag about his star player, Gregg Gruhl, who broke Tim Scheidt's rebounding record and led the team to their victories during the season. This year's Freshman basketball team also broke the Field Goal percentage record which was set by the 1967-68 Freshman basketball team.

Eighth Fights for Wins

By using the skills learned in the lower grades, the eighth grade basketball team mastered some of the hard-to-come-by skills of basketball. Coached by Mr. Lee Essex, the eighth grade started out slowly, gaining only enough momentum to maintain wins in sets of two. During the fifth game of the season, Don Sigman scored 21 of the 38 total points for a season high for one person on the eighth grade team.

The seventh grade had a more successful season, only faltering once to Southwestern and then by only a two point margin. The first game of the season saw Steve Thayer and Rex Baxter each scoring 13 points. Along with 11 points scored by Doug Teltoe, the team glided over St. Peters by a score of 42 to 36.

In tournament play, Hauser's eighth grade lost the first game with St. Columba by a score of 45 to 40 but came back to beat Smithville in the consolation game by a score of 36 to 33. Going into the tourney with a record of 11 and 1, the seventh grade beat St. Columba in the first game and fought hard to beat Southwestern in the championship game to win their tourney. In the championship game Rex Baxter led all scorers with 17 points and more than his share of rebounds.

Five boys on the all-conference team this year were Randy Teltoe, John Deiwert, Larry Finke, Rick Foist, and Barry Hoover. All five boys represented a different part of the baseball team. Randy Teltoe represented the hitting attack of the Jets, John Deiwert-catching, Rick Foist-in-field, Larry Finke-outfield, and Barry Hoover-the pitching staff.

Randy Teltoe led the Jets in the hitting department with an average of .485, a respected average in any league. John Deiwert, Rick Foist, and Lee Shirley were three other boys who made the top ten lists. It should be said that the team had an average of .334.

The team started out with a victory and did not stop until they were upset by South Decatur, a team which came in third in the conference. They defeated the number two team twice and lost only one other game to Edinburg.

Barry Hoover has the lowest earned run average at the time of this writing with an earned run average of 1.20. All in all, Coach Robert Miller led his team to a conference championship with a 10 and 2 record and a chance for a sectional championship.

KEEPING AN EYE on the ball proved to be helpful to John Deiwert as he smacks the ball.

Jr. Varsity Track and

Starting out the season with an eleven to eight victory over Taylorsville, Hauser's Jr. Varsity showed the strength they needed to overpower all-comers. Mr. Jordan, coach of the Jr. Varsity, gave the boys the leadership needed to produce a winning ball team.

Leading all batters on the Jr. Varsity was Wade Baxter with an average of .579. Dale Henderson, Jeff Sneed, and David Stowell followed close behind with averages of .462, .444, and .429 respectively. Jeff Sneed proved to be the power hitter though by smacking two homeruns in the Taylorsville game to give the Jets the winning margin.

Bob Rowe lead the pitchers with an Earned Run Average of 3.62. His record was two wins, no losses, and two saves. Phil Mankin had two wins and no losses, but he did not have quite as many innings as Bob.

Peter Mead lead the track team through most of the meets, but the team still lost every meet in which they participated. Mr. Essex, coach of the Jr. High Track team, showed the boys the fundamentals of doing such things as shot putting, hurdlng, and high jumping in such a way that gave them more of a chance of winning.

Trackmen Break Three

Spurred by the performances of several teammates, Hauser's track team finished fourth in the Conference. Steve Taylor was the top man for Hauser by finishing third in the 220 yard dash, fourth in the 100 yard dash, and helping the 880 yard relay team come in second.

Paul Nading also showed versatility by finishing first in the high jump and fourth in the shot put. Robert Phares, also in the shot put, placed third for Hauser. All of this together gave Hauser the depth they needed to place the highest they have ever finished in the Conference.

Three records, pole vault, 220 yard dash, and the 880 yard relay, were broken during the season. Steve Taylor broke the pole vault, 220 yard dash, and helped Randy Teltoe, Rick Foist, and Bill Anderson break the 880 yard relay record.

In points, Steve Taylor finished first getting 89 points. Following were Randy Teltoe, Ed Skurka, and Rick Foist who came in second, third, and fourth in that order.

Led by Joe Burney, captain, the team demonstrated strong team balance in sweeping to a close second place finish in the Mid-Hoosier Conference. Competing in the familiar confines of Edinburg, the team bunched the first five runners in the top twenty-one, as Joe Burney placed in the top ten individually. Team depth proved to be the deciding factor in Hauser winning second place. Hauser and Waldron both finished with a score of 77. Hauser's sixth runner, Steve Taylor, finished in the 24th slot beating out Waldron's sixth man who finished 30th in the race.

Eighteen varsity boys battled to finish in the lower spots on the team during the course of the season. Nine team members were awarded letters for their outstanding accomplishments.

Seven freshmen gained experience and learned the fundamentals of distance running while competing as a team. Doug Allen led the team to a fourth place finish in the freshman competition of the Mid-Hoosier Conference. The team also handily defeated the freshman team from South Decatur, 20 to 35. All seven boys received numerals for their efforts.

TEAM LEADER Joe Burney consistently paced the team in overpowering the opposition.

A Time for Activities

A time for activities was found this year at Hauser, as the students were kept busy with various whirlwinds of all types. Everyone was involved in activities ranging from formal homecoming to casual G.A.A. Booster clubs found many overtimes both exciting and exhausting while backing the Jets at basketball games.

Agri-business was a new activity which allowed the boys to begin work, authorized by the school, starting at 2:00 P.M. Future clubs permitted the students to become familiar with future occupations which they might someday consider the everyday routine for their life's success.

With Better Insight

Representing Hauser this year at Boys' and Girls' State were Tim Scheidt at Indiana State and Connie Epperson who attended Indiana University. Having spent two weeks working on a mock government, both broadened their knowledge on government. They were chosen by the American Legion and its Auxiliary.

From Gautamala, South America, Sonia Berrios Herrarte came as an exchange student for six months. During her stay she visited Washington D.C. and New York City. As an exchange student from Hauser, Susan Mead spent the summer in Mexico City, Mexico. Living with a family of six, she was entertained by bull fights, a vacation in Acapulco, and other activities of the Mexicans.

Sponsored by the Foreign Study League, Karen Dodd spent six weeks traveling in Europe. The Eiffel Tower in Paris, the ruins in Rome, and Big Ben in London were a few of the sites she visited. A group from Hauser traveled by bus this summer for two weeks in Mexico. Also they observed many scenic sites such as Acapulco, Mexico and learned about the customs and language of the people.

Special Projects Keep

Members of the Future Farmers of America participated in the Heritage Day Celebration by entering a float in the parade and also displaying farm machinery used before the development of powered equipment. Money-making projects carried out by the FFA included a soc hop in November and steam cleaning engines.

During the year three teachers spoke to the members of the Future Teachers of America during their club meetings. These three teachers were: Mrs. Mabel Utter, math teacher; Mrs. Nancy Wagner, Latin and English teacher; and Mr. Lee Essex, biology teacher. The teachers aroused interest in the students to follow a teaching career by talking of their experiences in college and the rewards that they have gained through daily instruction.

Putting their time and talent into a worthy cause, the members of the Future Homemakers of America, under the direction of Mrs. Betty Burney, provided clothes and other presents for Christmas to a little girl of the community. The club also made dresses for eleven girls participating in the Head Start Program at Clifford. To help finance their charitable activities, the FHA raffled 13 cakes during the basketball season.

Is Recognized Through Societies and Honors

The National Honor Society is an organization whose members have and keep a "B" average. It had a party for new initiates in the spring. Sponsoring the annual "Mixer" was the National Honor Society on October 16. An initiation meeting was held the last of April. They ordered crocus bulbs and planted them in the courtyard.

Quill and Scroll is an international journalism organization. To qualify for membership a person has to be in the upper third of his class and in journalism for at least one year. Those who were inducted in March were: seniors, Karen McQueen, Brenda Miller, Peggy Nussmeier, Lu Anne Robinette, Janice Sigman, Tim Scheidt, and Kim Thayer. Juniors inducted were: Ted Finke, and Debbie Frady.

Betty Crocker award was won by Miss Carolyn McCarty on the basis of her home economics knowledge. She competed along with the senior home economics class who took the test in the fall.

Miss Susan Thayer, was chosen DAR good citizen on the basis of dependability, service, patriotism, and character. On December 8 she took a test and on March 11 she gave a speech on patriotism to a group of DAR winners and their mothers.

DAR WINNER, Susan Thayer gets a point of merit by cleaning out her locker.

Student Council was sponsored by Principal Glen Keller and consisted of representatives from each class. This year the Student Council assisted in sponsoring the Mixer, an annual dance held early in the fall. In December members were busy planning the Christmas party sponsored by Student Council.

Audio-Visual Crew was sponsored by Mr. Charles Biggs and helped in supplying teachers with necessary equipment for their classrooms.

Science Club sponsors the Science Fair each spring. Members helped in the direction of activities. Sponsored by Leo Stevens the Science Club also plants flowers in the court each year.

Library Club members were the hourly assistants in the library. Some of the duties were filing, jacketing, and finding books for students and teachers. For the Christmas Holidays the members had a grab bag and surprised Mr. Charles Mason with a gift to show their appreciation for being a worthy sponsor.

Hauser Senior High School Band

Contest and Concert

Under the direction of Mr. Charles T. Biggs, the Hauser Senior High Band shared the hustle and bustle of preparing for the concerts with the other musical organizations. The Junior and Senior High Chorus under the new direction of Mrs. Ruby Walker, and the Junior and Senior High Bands performed a Christmas concert on December 13, and a Spring concert on May 4. To improve the ability of the band and chorus, the groups as a whole participated in the State Band and Chorus Contests on April 24 at Rushville.

On October 3 the band traveled to Bloomington to be a part of the mass bands for IU Band Day. In May the annual Spring Tour caused the bandmen to journey to local schools to perform before a variety of audiences. Band officers this year were: Everett McIntyre, president; Susan Thayer, vice-president; Janice Sigman, secretary; and Wayne Kuhfahl, treasurer.

Newly formed this year, a Junior High Chorus, performed at a concert on October 29 in collaboration with the Junior High Band and Chorus. Selected from the Senior High Chorus was a show group which executed its talent at various community activities.

School Spirit and Strength Lies in Success

Members of the Lettermen's Club who received their jackets were Randy Teltoe, Joe Burney, Mike Armuth, Ted Finke, Rick Foist, and Steve Taylor. Others who would possibly receive a jacket later were Lee Shirley, Tim Scheidt, Robert Phares, and John Deiwert. The Lettermen's Club held a Blanket Toss to raise money for Hauser's admission into the Indiana Hall of Fame.

Hauser's spirit this year was boosted high by hardworking booster clubs and many pep sessions. The Girl's Booster Club held bake sales during the year to raise money for their annual Booster Club dance held February 20. Enough money was collected from these bake sales so that members did not have to pay to attend.

nd Gaining Points Keeps Girls 'on the Go'

Providing an excellent outlet for energetic and ambitious girls and producing a challenge in skill and sportsmanship was the Girls' Athletic Association. Under the supervision of Mrs. Geneva Wickens, sponsor, meetings were held after school the second Wednesday of every month. Sharing skill, sportsmanship, and teamwork, members took part in various challenging sports. G.A.A. members participated in organized and unorganized sports to gain points toward a 50 point pin and a 150 point numeral, given on Award's Day.

Under the choreography of Mrs. Geneva Wickens, the Marching Hauserettes performed entertaining routines at Hauser band shows presented during the year. Each performance of the Hauserettes provided an interesting aspect to the halftime basketball games. The Hauserettes attended I.U. Band Day with the Marching Jets. Chosen as head Hauserettes on presentation of skill, experience, and leadership were seniors Connie Epperson and Kathy Fiesbeck.

Thirty-two Journalists Perform Record Work for Future Reference

A record number of twenty-one second year Typing students from both Typing classes worked on the Interceptor staff. Two Layout editors were appointed in each of the classes. For third period, Carolyn McCarty and Cindy Smith worked with the fourth period editors Kim Thayer and Becky Janes.

This was the second year for John Finke as news reporter to The Republic. Last spring, John won a first place award from The Republic for his news work.

Composing the Jetstream Staff this year were eight seniors and two juniors. These journalists worked during sixth period, on Saturdays, and after school to complete the publication of the yearbook.

Two weeks at Indiana University during August of 1970 presented much useful knowledge to co-editors Shirley Gabriel and Susan Thayer. In October, five staff members and advisor, Mrs. Guyneth Webster attended a yearbook institute at Franklin College.

A Time for Academics

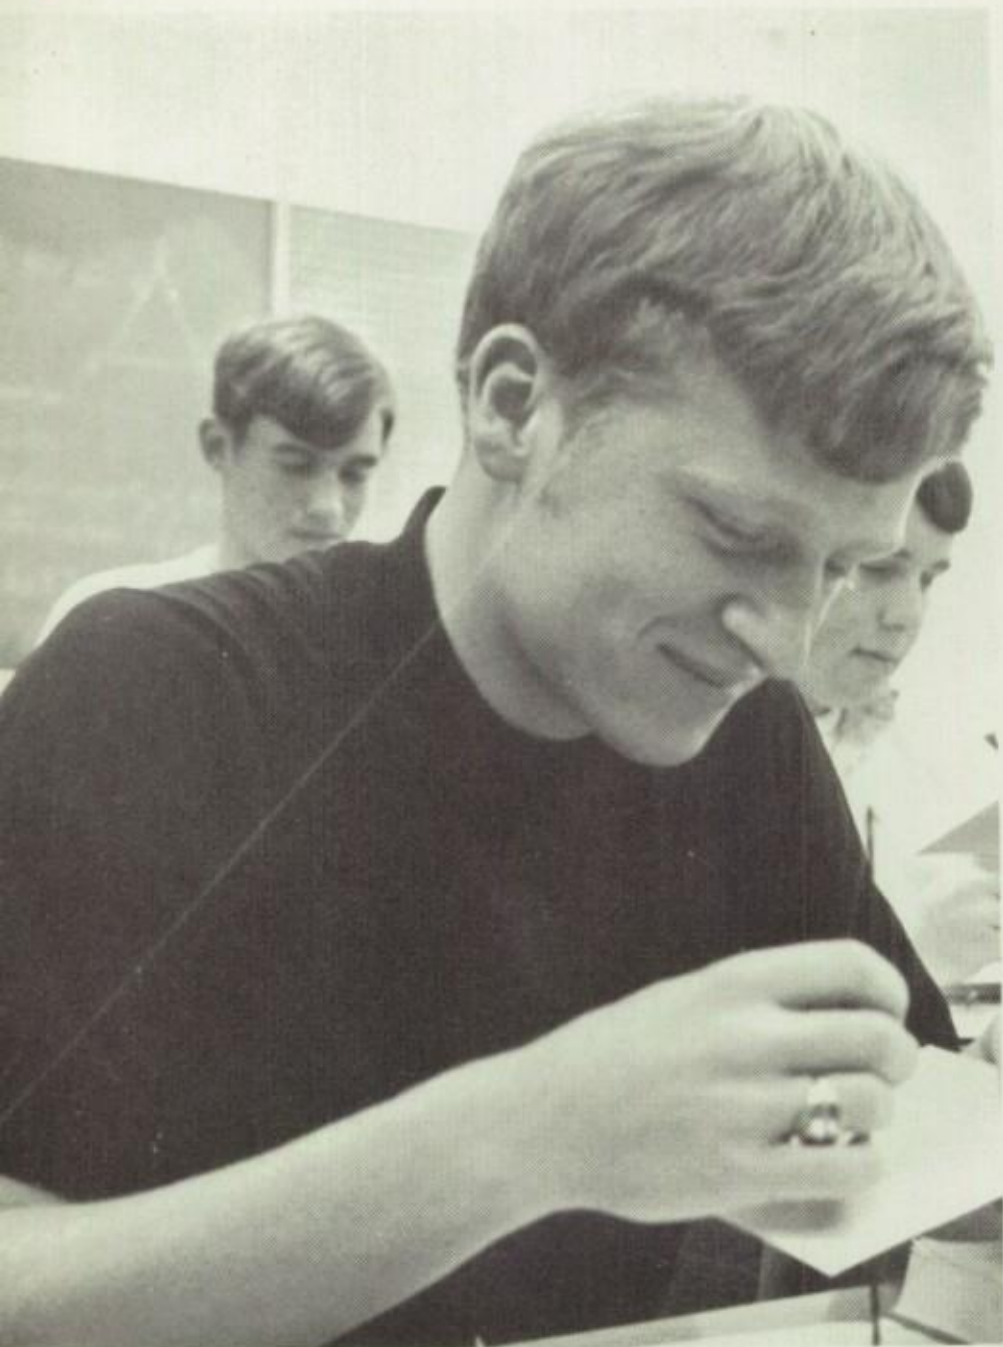

Academics at Hauser High School promote Hauser students to higher education. The curriculum offered helps students to choose a goal in life and to train them for a role in this fast-paced world. College techniques are used by Hauser teachers to give students a taste of college work.

Every subject offered trains the student for some phase of work after he graduates or prepares him for college. Hauser faculty, with the aid of appropriate equipment, are superbly trained to guide students along the path to a better tomorrow.

WORKING INDUSTRIOUSLY over tomorrow's assignment is Mr. Cann's fifth period freshman algebra class.

EXAMINING THE CONSTRUCTION of geometric designs helps geometry students, Carol England, Catherine Simmons, and Jill Finke to visualize the forms of various shaped polygons.

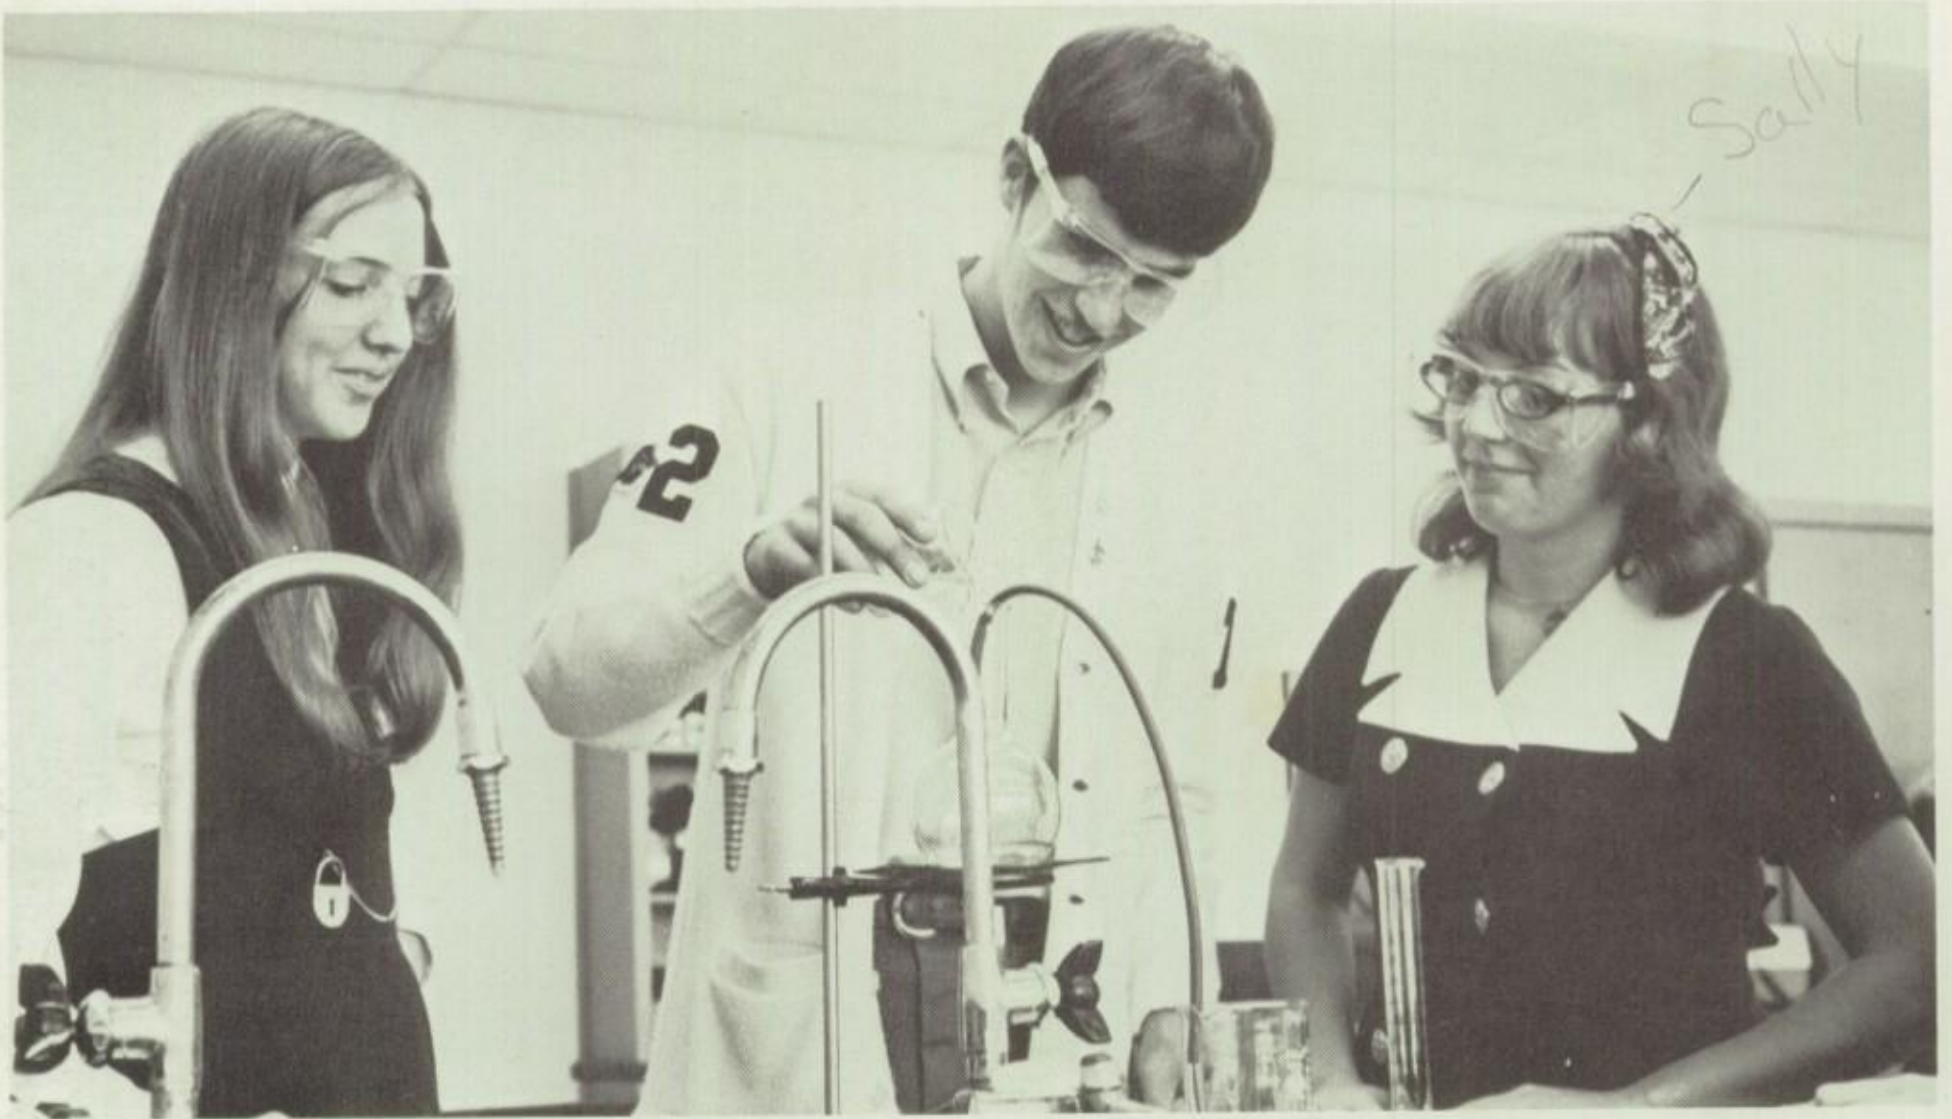

"WHERE IS THAT NUMBER?" wonders junior Susan Holstein as she uses the tables on her desk to solve a logarithm problem.

Useful Now and Later

Math principles learned today as students in high school or college will become practical in the future, as well as now in the present. The knowledge gained and remembered will prove worthwhile in the solution of a problem in the future life of the students as they leave the schools of education to work in their own occupations.

Many fields of math were offered at Hauser this year. The teachers in this vocation were Mrs. Mabel Utter, Mr. George Cann, Mr. Nicholas Cooksey, and Mrs. Irene Fuller. Information for the college-bound math students was gained through courses in algebra, geometry, advanced algebra, and senior math. Fundamentals for business math were also offered for those going into different occupations not requiring college. Mrs. Irene Fuller trained and familiarized the junior high students with concepts of math that later would prove helpful to them in their high school math curriculum.

Many Areas of Science

Joining the science department this year was Mr. Nicholas Cooksey who taught chemistry, physics, and one class of eighth grade science. With the combined efforts of Mr. Leo Stevens and Mr. Cooksey, the seventh and eighth grade diligently studied modern earth science applying the principles which they learned in organizing rock and leaf collections. Later in the year, the classes displayed in the annual science fair.

Performing different labs, the chemistry class put to use such chemicals as potassium and sulfur. Learning the various concepts of the gas and pressure laws, the class was kept preoccupied most of the time. Due to the smallness of the physics' class, Mr. Cooksey was able to pay particular attention to his classmates in the solving of problems concerning velocity and distance.

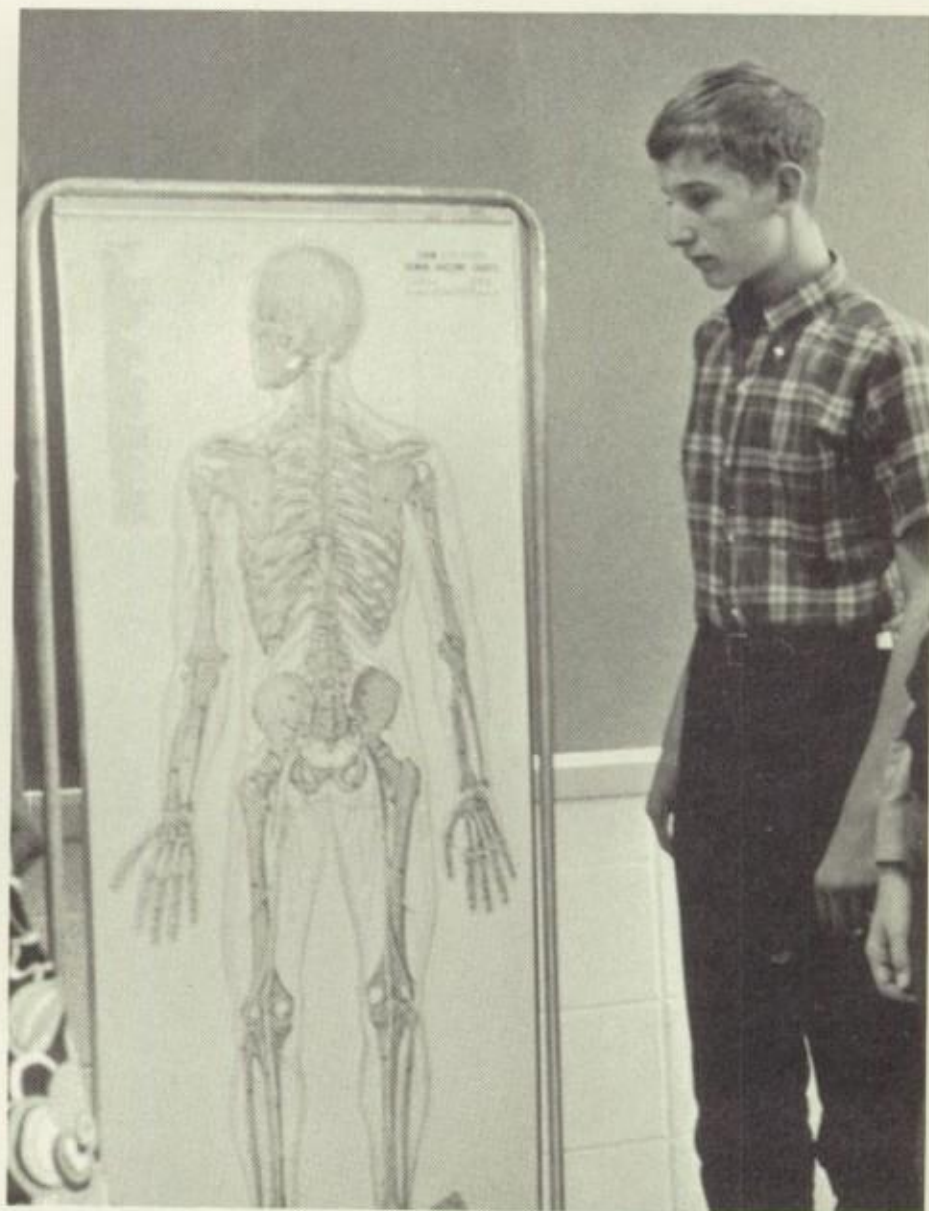

Studying the functions and make up of the body, the biology class, with the aid of microscopes and charts, worked under the direction of Mr. Lee Essex. Dissecting many types of animals and performing lab experiments was also an activity of the class. Discussions of the good health habits, first aid, and the anatomy of the body engrossed the students in the health class.

GIVING THE TEACHER their full attention, Ronnie Everroad, Doug Essex, and Matthew Marlin study the anatomy of the body.

New Techniques Help

A new course was added to the Hauser High School curriculum. This course, Reading Improvement, has been added to help improve reading. The course, taught by Mr. Gerald Jordan, was extended to all high school students. Any high school student may take this course if they so desire.

The Senior English class presented the Christmas convocation on December 23. "The Night Before Christmas" and "The Twelve Days of Christmas" were the two acts performed by members of Mr. Jordan's Senior English class. The Senior English classes wrote term papers on various authors of their own choosing. The Senior English classes also read many books required to be read by colleges.

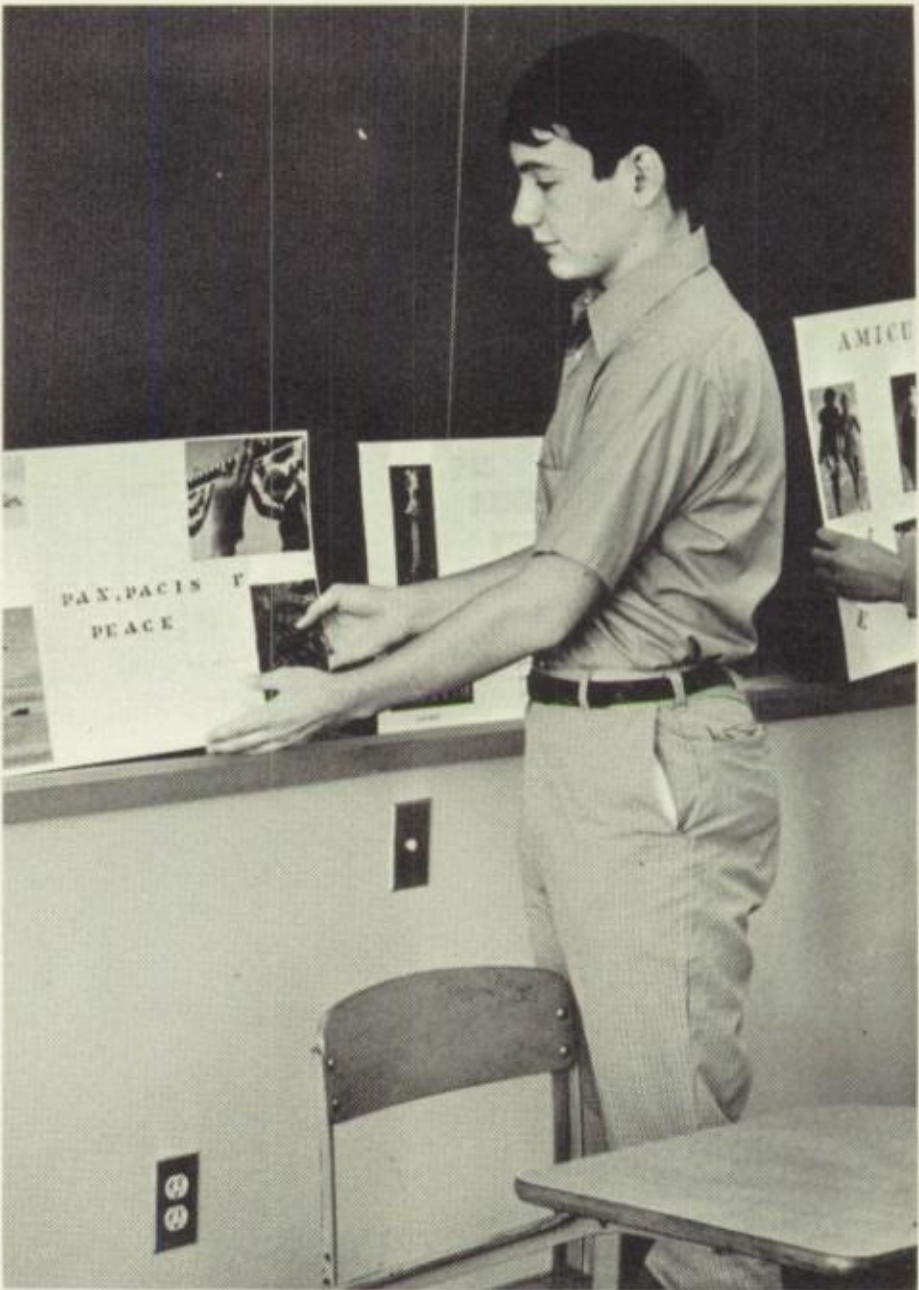

Spanish and English classes each had use of the display case in the front hall. The Latin class showed different Latin projects made by the Latin students. Likewise, the Spanish students put many Spanish souvenirs in the display case which were obtained by students who had been to Mexico.

Board Urge Class on

History and Psychology classes this year were interesting and involving. Many students reacted with eagerness to heated discussions and debates held concerning problems of today. Several students presented a certain period of history by dressing in the appropriate costume of that time.

Other material besides the regular textbooks was used to enliven students and to make history more interesting. During some history classes, students participated in actual discussions where they were encouraged to give their own opinions.

Psychology classes engaged in experiments of the senses by using a Ouija board. They were given questions by the teacher concerning problems presented by a doctor in a local newspaper. These articles were read in class every day and discussed thoroughly by the teacher and the students.

HOME KEYS, ready, start! First year typing class learns fundamentals of typing with frequent glances at the key chart.

Business People Make

Business Machines, Typing I, and General Business, all taught by Mr. Wichard, were part of the business course presented at Hauser. Business Machines familiarized students with the three basic machines, full key, ten key, and automatic calculator. Stress was put on accuracy and speed. Typing I taught correct finger position. General Business taught the basics used in the business world, such as check writing, stocks and bonds, and money handling.

Shorthand I and II, Bookkeeping, and Typing II were the business courses taught by Mrs. Webster. Shorthand I and II, trained those girls with future secretarial work in mind for taking letters by Gregg method. In Bookkeeping, students mastered debits, and credits through the complete business cycle. Typing II students developed production skills in business forms, and letters, as well as produced the school paper, Interceptor.

Awards were presented on awards day for students who met speed requirements. In Shorthand I and II, awards were given for speed in taking dictation. In Typing I, speed awards were also given. Business Machines awards were given for speed on the three machines mentioned.

How Creative Talent

Art classes taught by Mrs. Jane Howard experimented with a lot of ideas and displayed them in their handicraft. In such things as pottery, drawings, and paintings, students had an opportunity to display talent along with creative ability. During the Christmas season, art classes decorated the front hall using the stain glass effect. Students not engaged in taking art could still enjoy the work being done by noticing the display case in the freshman hall which was filled with work being done by the classes.

Mrs. Geneva Wickens, Mr. Robert Miller, and Mr. Ward Smith, all physical education teachers, taught students the importance of mastering physical exercise. Many different activities were used throughout the year. Girls engaged in sports such as basketball, fireball, tumbling, volleyball, and dancing. In dancing, girls learn steps such as bossa nova, swing, and cha-cha-cha. Boys stress such fields as rope climbing, tumbling, fireball, exercising, and basketball. Tumbling, which both classes use, consists of different methods of exercise such as forward roll, knee dip, mule kick, backward roll, and handstand.

Shop Classes Convert

Mr. Cooper maintained the job of teaching his mechanical drawing pupils to draw pictures and his power and print, wood, and metal shops to work with various tools. Mr. Cooper's mechanics class had various projects, such as building a dune buggy. Each student helped in taking apart an old truck and building the dune buggy from the truck's parts.

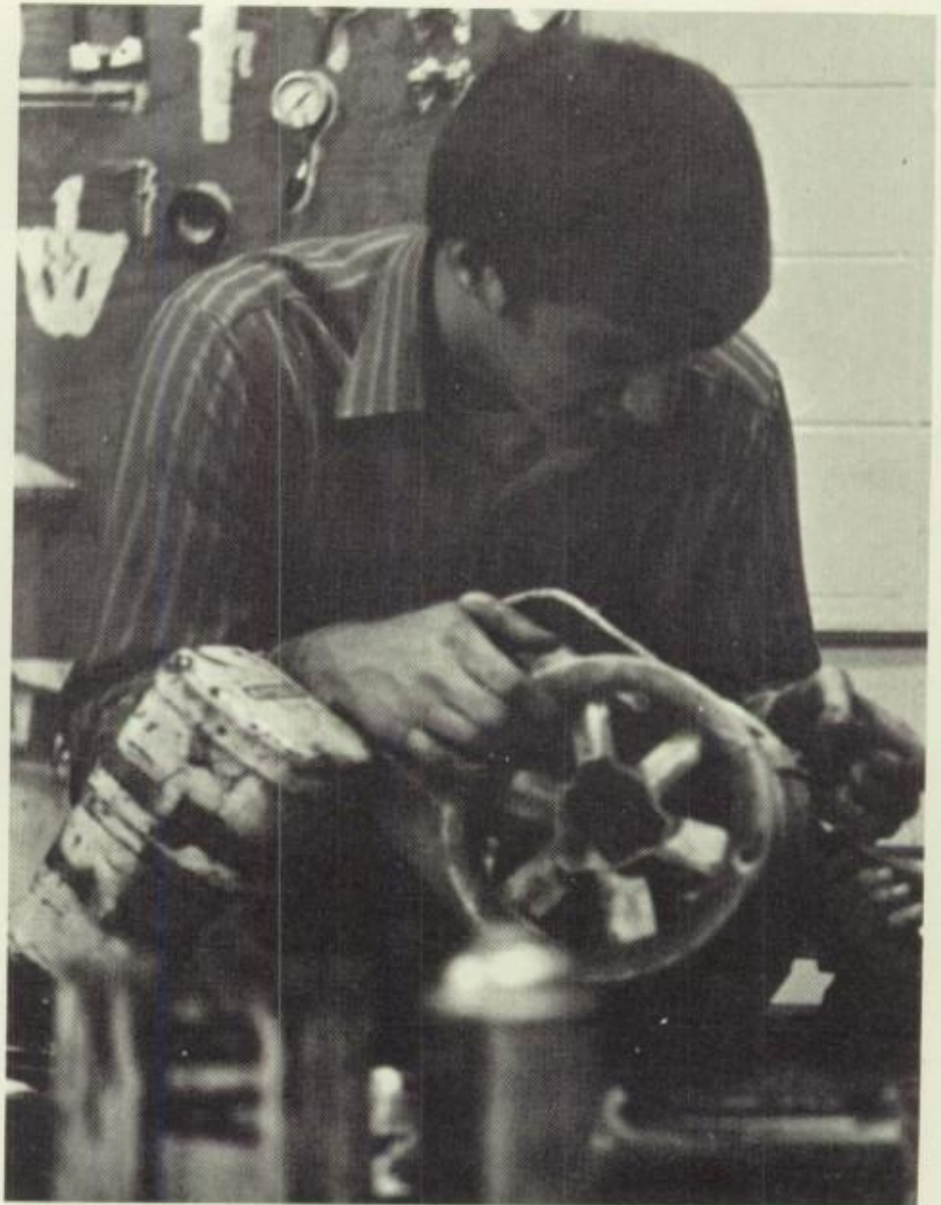

Mr. Siebert, a new teacher, took Mr. Clayton's place in teaching Vocational Agriculture. Vocational Agriculture includes the study of farm management, soil analysis, farm mechanics, and farm tools. Mr. Siebert's class steam cleaned engines as a money making project. They gave business to anyone who wanted their engine cleaned at $2.00 an engine.

There were also several other projects in Mr. Cooper's shop classes. Each student could make any object he liked out of wood or metal. This gave the student points on which he was graded each six weeks by Mr. Cooper.

SENIOR GIRLS CAREFULLY STUDY plans of homes which someday they shall be planning on their own.

Home Ec. and Driving

In various years of Home Economics many girls learned how to run a home smoothly and efficiently. They began by learning the main fundamentals of cooking and sewing. From there they advanced to more developed methods of caring for a home and family. Planning their own home was included in the last phase of the Home Economics course.

From planning a full-course meal to participating in a fashion show, Home Ec. girls learn from their own experiences. Year after year they have prepared refreshments for the students and faculty at the annual Christmas party held at Hauser.

Driving a car safely requires even more skill and knowledge. Drivers Education was designed to produce safe and defensive drivers from high school students interested in the technique of driving. It was a step toward cutting down the number of traffic errors made on the road through inefficient knowledge of the rules of the road.

SUBMITTING TO HAVING HER PULSE taken by Teresa Burton is Beverly Long as part of a Home Ec. lesson.

"EASY DOES IT," says Janice McQueen as she gently maneuvers the car in the art of parallel parking.

A Time for Living

The population at Hauser this year increased with the coming of 107 seventh graders to join the family at the Jr.-Sr. High School. Also, five new teachers joined the teaching staff to help the students gain more knowledge in the vocation which they would choose for their future life in the world of business.

The school controls many of the students' romances, as the door of many new acquaintances is opened during the roaming of the halls at Hauser. With the active students participating very enthusiastically in sports, many of these sportsmen came out on top—of crutches.

PREPARING TO GIVE an announcement during second period is Mr. Keller.

FIGURING THE DAY'S AGENDA, Mr. Rowe writes out his upcoming activities.

Clifford Elementary and Changes Dress Code

Principal Glen Keller carried out the new dress code proposed by the School Board. This code was modified to meet with the changing generation. As in past years, Mr. Keller remained sole sponsor of the Student Council and Boys' Booster Club. Also, he is co-sponsor of the National Honor Society.

Drawings for the new grade school to replace Clifford Elementary were near completion. The cost of the school is yet to be decided. School Board members have voted on and completed many of the decisions to be made in the plans. No date has yet been proposed as to when the construction would begin.

Mr. McQueen, the Guidance Counselor, has maintained the ever-important duty of guiding and directing students in Hauser High School. Sponsoring F.T.A. and administering various nationwide tests are other activities of Mr. McQueen. He serves as principal of the school whenever Mr. Keller is not present. Mr. McQueen helps all seniors planning on going to college by giving them current information on any possible college in the country.

Varied Hobbies Ranging from Golf to Guppies

TWO GREAT MINDS converge to discuss the effectiveness of zone defense by coaches Ward Smith and Robert Miller.

Imparting their knowledge and experience in the classroom, teachers introduced realistic and challenging discussions and activities. They were constantly encouraging students to get involved in academics, to break boring routine and to make school interesting enough for students to want to listen and learn.

Although teachers were constantly preparing students for their future, they managed to find time for fun and relaxation with family or friends. Mr. George Cann, a new faculty member, completed a year's work on his Master's Degree at I.U. He also took a trip through the Virginias. Mr. Biggs' hobby is golf.

Mr. Nicholas Cooksey, the new Chemistry teacher, traveled through Texas. Football was his favorite sport. Mrs. Irene Fuller, new Math teacher, took 24 hours toward her Master's. Her hobby was breeding guppies. She also traveled in Missouri and Illinois. Mrs. Jane Howard, new art teacher, completed her Master's at Ball State University.

Teaching and Looks Forward to Retirement

"FACULTY OUT TO LUNCH?" Mr. Mason examines pictures colored by an ailing Mr. Jordan who suffered from the mumps.

Faculty members enjoyed several activities besides the daily task of teaching. Over the summer vacation, Mrs. Webster traveled to the Hawaiian Islands, and Mrs. Ruby Walker, the new chorus teacher, visited Pennsylvania. In the line of hobbies, Mr. Smith attempted gardening and Mr. Miller collected coins.

After several years of dedication, Mrs. Mabel Utter decided to retire from teaching. In the past, Mrs. Utter has served as sponsor of National Honor Society and also sponsor of the classes of 1958, 1965, and 1970. She has taught Algebra, Geometry, Advanced Algebra, Senior Math, and also Temac.

'The Goals of Today Are Tomorrow's Success''

Fifty-seven seniors in the Class of '71 encountered many joys and problems. Previous class sponsors were: in the seventh grade Mrs. Virginia Segebarth, 7-1; Mr. John Buttermann, 7-2; and Mr. Lance Bedwell, 7-3. Other class sponsors were: Mrs. Rosa Nelle Scott and Mrs. Marie Talley in the eighth grade; Mrs. Phosia Wright and Mr. Tony Sampson in the ninth grade through the tenth; Mr. Sampson and Mr. Charles Mason in the eleventh; and as seniors, Mrs. Jane Howard and Mr. Mason were there to assist them.

The class motto for the Class of '71 was "The Goals of Today Are Tomorrow's Success" which showed enthusiasm for graduation. On November 16, 1970, more excitement was added to the year by measuring for caps and gowns. November 25, 1970 was set aside for ordering announcements and senior keys.

Class colors were burgundy and white to match burgundy gowns and burgundy and white tassels. The '71 seniors carried yellow roses, the class flower.

"DO YOU REALLY expect me to believe that?" asked Kim Thayer while chatting to classmates.

Prom Theme Salutes Astrology as "Age of

As the Class of '71 worked and enjoyed their way through junior year, they found that sometimes the stars held good signs as well as bad. One sign was considered very good—when they received their class rings on October 27.

Working at concessions at the ball games proved to be a hard way of financing a prom, but it also proved to be an enjoyable one, too. Working in the coat check was just as hard, but sometimes not as much fun—especially when the coat rack broke! A soc-hop was also sponsored as a junior activity.

When the theme "Age of Aquarius" was announced for the prom, the class really looked to the stars for help. They also discovered how much fun could be found in working together, especially on the zodiac signs, ranging from Aquarius to Capricorn.

"I DON'T SEE why a GIRL has to take an Armed Services' test!" says Kathy Fiesbeck to herself, while Shirley Gabriel works solemnly.

Juvenile Days of Junior High for '71 Class

The last year for Clifford School was made one of the most fun-filled, thanks to the graduating class of 1971. Many tours down the fire escape brought gaiety to their spare time. Many science classes were spent outside under a pine tree in the springtime, and inside with the snow blowing through the open window in the winter.

For the eighth grade year the new high school was initiated. Learning to use the Robert Norris Library was a task for the inexperienced students.

As freshmen, moving into the mainstream of high school was a little less exciting after meeting the school and upperclassmen a year early. With the new schedules and more difficult subjects, the year was finally trudged through with some success.

The second year of high school was a little easier on the sophomores after experiences of the past year. Toward the end of the year the untraditional oval-shaped rings were picked to be a symbol of the class.

"CAN WE ADD A VACATION HERE?" wonders senior Brenda Miller as her spare time is spent in the office as a helper.

SNOWBALL ACTION adds a cool day to the seniors' memories as Lee Shirley, Robert Phares, and Rick Foster enjoy the "fight".

Plans Were Labor-Filled Words to '72 Class

Under the sponsorship of Mrs. John Glick and Mr. James Cooper, the junior class had a year filled with many highlights. The 1972 Prom was held in May at the Ramada Inn in Nashville. As the best was prepared for the outstanding event of the year, every member of the class was kept active in several different ways. The junior concessions and coat check which was operated at all Junior-High and High School basketball games was the main source of finance. A soc hop on February 13, sponsored by the class proved to be financially worthwhile.

Following the fad of the '71 class, the juniors also received an untraditionally shaped ring. The arrival of the Apollo rings provided a chance for the class to get together on October 30, and begin future plans for the year.

As the testing side of the year was looked into, the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test was given to help prepare the college-bound students for the Scholastic Aptitude Test taken in May as a major asset to entering the college or university of their choice.

Prove Worthwhile to the Incoming Freshmen

Guiding the Freshman class into the new atmosphere of high school were the sponsors, Mr. Cann and Mrs. Burney. As the incoming class of 1974, they were required to take the California Test of Maturity during the first semester and the Differential Aptitude Test in April. Part of the responsibility was to take three required subjects, English, Biology, and Physical Education.

During the first semester, the Freshman class participated in a class party which was ice skating. After the task of becoming familiar with the new locker combinations, scheduling of classes, and harder subjects, the class proved to have an exciting year.

Eighth Graders Plan Freshman Curriculum

Accepting the challenges of the eighth grade, the class of '75 advanced to higher levels of education. Two major projects during the year were a rock collection and star observation. Working to accomplish the best display, each student collected and identified as many rocks as possible. After familiarizing themselves with the many stars by observation of their own, the students composed a paper and drew a diagram of the stars that they had studied and seen.

During the spring in preparation for entering high school the following year, the eighth graders considered what courses they should choose to study in high school. Each student was advised as to what subjects to take in their high school career by the student counselor, Mr. A.J. McQueen. Especially for the boys, completely new opportunities would soon come alive in the Vocational Agriculture and Shop classes.

Science Projects, and Thousand Word Essays

Beginning a new school life of switching classes, science fair projects, and thousand word essays, the seventh graders experienced their first year of junior high school life.

Although the sport of roller skating was new to some, the class had a skating party both first and second semesters, under the guidance of class sponsors Mr. Gividen and Mrs. Fuller. The first semester party was held on December 10 at the Seymour skating rink. The class also journeyed to Possum Glory for a field trip in the spring.

UPHOLDING SECRETARIAL duties are Mrs. Mary Gruhl and (seated) Mrs. Maribell Andrews.

Preparing and keeping the school records, Mrs. Mary Gruhl and Mrs. Maribell Andrews upheld secretarial duties to the principal. Assisting the superintendent was Mrs. Katherine Hoy. They contributed to the daily routine of the school by the various activities which they performed.

The office helpers performed duties and ran errands for the faculty and students. In the guidance department, students maintained services to Mr. A. J. McQueen by preparing schedules for conferences and other class information.

Assistants in the Physical Education department led exercises, helped in showers and refereed games to aid the teachers.

Preparing Lunches, Transporting Students,

Always on the go, three janitors found a typical working day full of varied jobs, ranging from fixing the roof to keeping the inside of the school in topnotch order. Study hall students were found time-to-time watching Mr. Neville on the lawn mower, in the meantime smelling freshly-cut grass. Being called to the rescue during a lunch tray upheaval was familiar to Mrs. Shirley. Mr. Aldridge found lowering the flag each afternoon daily routine. Students and faculty felt free to call upon them readily for assistance.

Preparing a variety of nutritious, hot lunches were the school's seven cooks. Many hours were spent each day cooking, serving, and cleaning up. Student helpers were employed in return for a free meal. Hauser's people approached several friendly faces each noon hour while "passing through the lunch line.

Thirteen skilled drivers became acquainted with a number of kids on their bus routes chauffeuring them to and from school Monday through Friday. Many were engaged in driving buses for various extra-curricular activities, such as away games and class parties.

A Time for Serving

Advertising played a major role in defraying publishing costs of the yearbook. From September 9 to November 12, the yearbook staff spent Saturdays soliciting ads in Columbus, Hope and Shelbyville. Other communities were covered by staff members on their own time.

By permission, the Jetstream Staff took one school day to finish up the ad section. This year, 118 ads and 13 boosters were received through efforts of the staff. Members of the staff urge each and every reader to patronize the business establishments that have helped to make this yearbook possible.

Dear Students,

Much time and effort has been given in putting the 1971 Jetstream together. We sincerely wish to thank the staff for the overtime spent after school making layouts and selling ads. Those, students and faculty, who cooperated with us on activities day and other times throughout the year also helped to make the publication of this yearbook possible. They share in the memories held in this book.

Our goal has been to create a yearbook different from all others—one that captures the school year in pictures and copy. If you, the student, feel a part of it, then our goal has been accomplished. We chose our theme, "A time for us" keeping in mind that this is "our" year. Not only for us, as seniors, who'll be gone from the halls next year but you, too, were a part of Hauser in 1970-71.

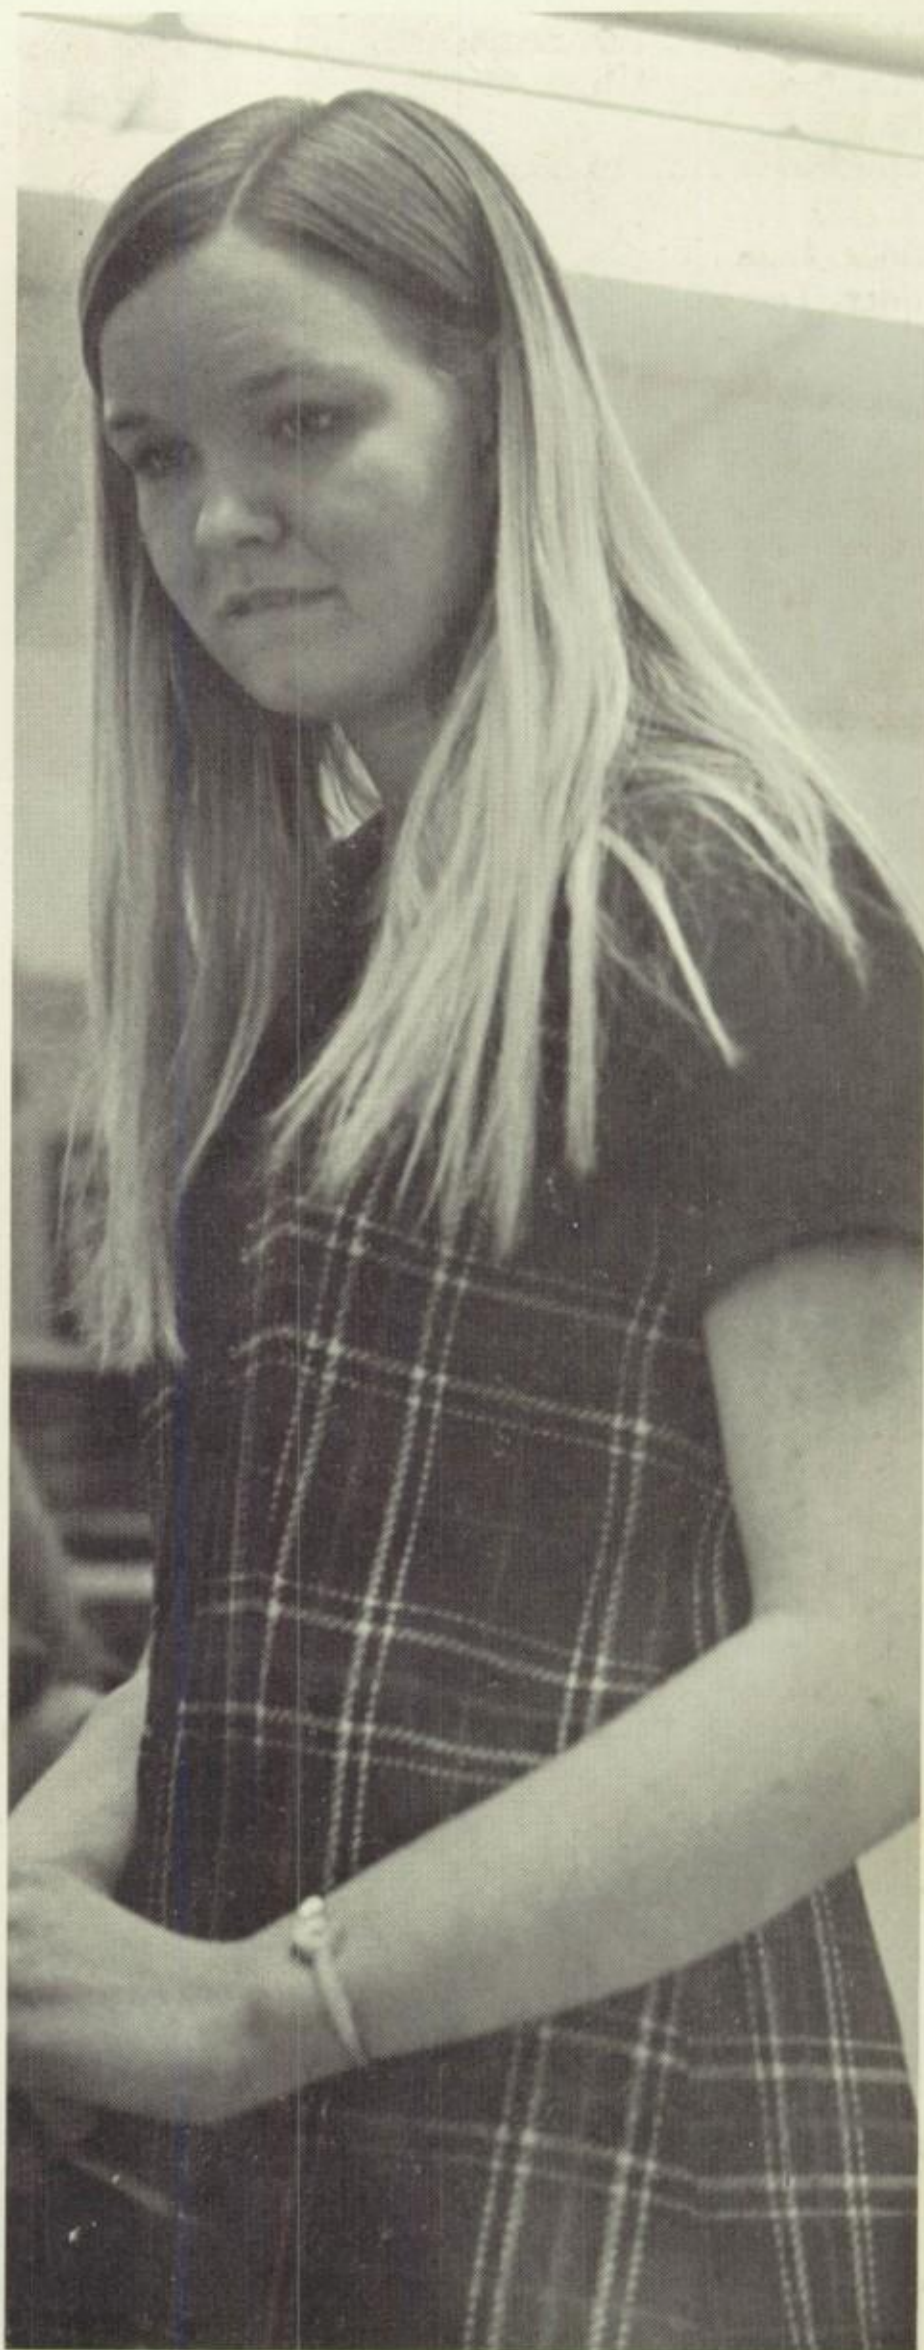

Your editors,

Susan J. Thayer

"RUN THAT PAST me again" . . . is the expression revealed on editor, Susan Thayer's face.

KEEPING IT INTERESTING is editor, Shirley Gabriel as she pins a picture on the Jetstream Room's bulletin board.

Martha,
a nice kid
at I like very much.
good luck in anything country for. Hope to see you round in the summer.
